

I
 a
 e,
 e
 at
 ab
 el
 ou
 of
 on
 he
 is
 of
 is
 and
 all
 an
 fac
 ews,
 are
 and
 wful
 t of
 us to
 own
 care
 d at
 ecte
 why
 cau
 l cal
 d to
 ty—
 about
 as up
 gn at
 luster
 y and
 ritory,
 its self
 might
 applied
 uthern
 cation.
 these
 pur
 never
 ps, nor eter in
 to greet
 id not intend
 on only
 make
 there is not may
 nceably
 eel they have a
 than in

SPEECH OF HON. WILLIAM H. SEWARD
In the United States Senate, Jan. 12, 1861.

[illegible]

National Anti-Slavery Standard

WITHOUT CONCEALMENT—WITHOUT COMPROMISE.

SENATOR SEWARD'S SURRENDER.

So the Republicans have surrendered at last.

in the defence of his side, which he had pronounced the better Law speech to be the side of Go-

Justice. It is not to be supposed that the General would take such a strong measure unless the last campaign, or at least some measure

But they will be overborne and put to an open sions from their humble premises. Slavery was to be surrounded. It was to have no outlet direction, and in due time it must die of starvation, lack of land with which to glut its maw. To

...was or not, when the Chicago Convention se

Lincoln in his stead. Mr. Lincoln was a Seward a fact. The one was a shadowy ers what they ask on the precise terms of every State in the enjoyment of their p the slaveholders' while to send in a sufficient number of Russians to control the elections.

matter in dispute might be disposed of under an unmolested President. But if they won't be so unreasonable perhaps we may show presently.

Mr. Seward thinks that the Personal

